ARCHITECTURAL HERITAGE

GARDEN | SCULPTURE | INTERIOR

I clearly remember some 40 years ago the kitchen table debate on the name that would best suit the new family venture. With 'Architectural Heritage' now well into its second generation, my brother Adam and I are proud to present this new catalogue of classic garden ornament built on the solid legacy of our parents Suzy and Adrian Puddy and founding partners Tania and Stephen Hitchins.

Inspired by the classic designs of the past and fabricated in traditional materials by craftsmen who care, we here present our carefully curated garden ornament collection, developed in and around our workshops at Taddington. The Arts & Crafts inspired Quercus Robur oak furniture range, seating and sundials carved in natural limestone and fountains with pool surrounds in age-patinated artificial stone, are this year complemented by a new range of designs for our popular copper planter collection, now with a choice of finishes for interior use, being bronze or natural brushed brass, in addition to our exterior verdigris finish.

As always we look to present, alongside the new, a diverse inventory of carefully curated antique garden ornament, sculpture and interiors. All of our pieces are steeped in history and provenance, for example: we currently have a rare demi-lune lead cistern dated 1653 associated with the Wren family; a fine pair of reclining greyhounds by the 19th century makers Austin and Seeley; numerous bronzes from the Grand Tour and a Gothic 18th century interior from Lee Priory, designed by James Wyatt – the only other known surviving element on display being the 'The Strawberry Room' in the Victoria & Albert Museum.

Our quest for preserving the past by recreating it for future generations continues and indeed this is what drives Architectural Heritage forward to endeavour to be the best in what we do and to provide an exceptional service to our loyal customers. We thank you for your interest.

Alex Puddy
